Claire Eden has been supporting breastfeeding families since 1998 has been a board certified lactation consultant (IBCLC) since 2009.

Prior to becoming a lactation consultant, Claire worked in health administration. Prior to joining CHOA she worked for the Georgia Chapter, American Academy of Pediatrics coordinating the state breastfeeding coalition and also worked as a lactation consultant at a pediatric practice. Sue She is currently serves on the board of the Georgia Breastfeeding Coalition and is a member of the United States Lactation Consultants Association (USLCA) and the Southeast Lactation Consultant Association (SELCA). Claire was active in the effort to legislate the licensure of lactation consultants in Georgia, which was supported by CHOA and signed into law in July 2016.

Claire joined CHOA in 2014 and is the lead lactation consultant at Egleston. She also maintains a small private practice. She and her family have lived in Atlanta for 17 years.

Britney Asbell CD(DONA) is a graduate of Mercer University with a Bachelors of Arts in Psychology and a Minor in Christianity. Britney found her calling in helping women and their families during pregnancy, birth, and the early postpartum period. She is a DONA International certified birth doula and a Breastfeeding USA counselor. When she is not assisting mothers in birth or with breastfeeding, she can often be found loving on her own babies, hiking with her family, or traveling. Britney resides in Kathleen, Georgia with her husband, Tyler and her two children, Lana (2 years old) and Tucker (3 months old).

Christie has enjoyed a fulfilling career in lactation ever since starting as a breastfeeding peer counselor at WIC in 2005. Her passion grew as she progressed through trainings and seminars. Christie was fortunate to get a paid internship at her local hospital’s lactation department, which eventually lead to becoming an IBCLC in 2008. She continued working in inpatient and outpatient settings at the hospital until 2014 when she transitioned to private practice. Christie is now proud to run a full service, free standing breastfeeding center. Her areas of clinical interest include emerging research topics, using evidence based practices to advance clinical outcomes, and serving patients from a multicultural perspective. In her personal life, she considers herself quite the foodie and enjoys making barbecue with her husband, as well as hiking and outdoor activities with her children.
Erica Francis-Scott, MD is an Optum Medical Director responsible for clinical executive leadership and oversight of national accounts. She graduated from Howard University College of Medicine, Washington, DC in 1993. She completed residency training in Pediatrics at Emory University in 1996. Following training, she worked at Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta in primary and urgent care centers throughout metropolitan Atlanta. Erica Francis-Scott transitioned to private practice in 2005 with the opening of Providence Pediatrics, LLC. In 2011, she joined the United Health Group family as one of the Georgia Regional Medical Directors with UHC Clinical Services. As of May 2013, she has been a member of the Optum Health team where she now serves as a National Accounts Medical Director.